"Thunspay, Jan. 14th .- I expected to have sent this on Monday, but have not made out. There is a great deal of work to do. I have four studies this term, one extra. Latin and physics are required. I take chemistry as an optional, and we have one or two lectures a week, and three day's work in the laboratory. This, however, left me some spare time, and as Prof. Esty agreed to give, instead of astronomy, mathematics, in the form of lectures, I chose that. In the lectureroom, Professor got off a joke on himself: He poured in his bicarbonate, screwed all tight, revolved it carefully, listened, turned it over several times, listened again: Says be, "Working very quietly; biggest forces don't always make most noise; least calculation, 2000 lbs to the square inch. now; no matter, machine has seen that before.
